BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, Dec'ber 20, 1871.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR—WHO SHALL HE BE?

We accord to our cotemporaries throughout the State, the fullest privilege, in naming and lauding their favorites for the Gubernatorial succession, as we claim the same right, and shall exercise it, with the utmost independence.

In our judgment we deem it highly beneficial for Republican journals without reserve, to examine the merit of men aspiring to honors in the gift of the Republican party. It is the fairest way to get at a true expression of popular preference and the surest manner of breaking down rings. Therefore, we say, let us have a full and free discussion of the merits of men, desiring to succeed Gov. Geary, and let the press everywhere express for the people, their prefferences.

We propose to do this for the Republicans of Centre county; if not for the Republicans of Central Pennsylvania, and we do it intelligently, when, we frankly declare that the Republicans of this county are in favor of the nomination of General John F. Hartranft as their candidate for Governor in 1872.

There is that in this gentlemen, which commend him, very highly, to reasonable and respectable men, and he combines the elements in his own character, which have made the Republican party victorious at the BALLOT BOX and powerful for good in the Government, viz: Native truthfulness, unaffected firmness and incorruptible integrity.

General Hartranft is a man of no pretensions whatever. When the country needed men to defend its honor on the battle-field, he quietly arranged his private business, closed all personal engagements, gathered a hundred men around him and went into Camp Curtin, placing his and their services at the disposal of the country, without a boasting word, or a pompous display, and from the hour that his name was enrolled on the lists of the Army, to the day that he was mustard out, he was the same, unpretending, reliable and determined patriot. Heroic, because it was his nature, and never faltering, because he understood the right, for which he was battling.

We do not propose to present a biography of Gen. J. F. Hartranft, nor have we the data at hand, minutely to trace his military career. The history of that is to-day a portion of Pennsylvania's noblest pride, and its record has already been instrumental in having twice elected Gen. Hartranft Auditor General of the State. In this position he has displayed those high executive abilities, that fit him so eminently for the position of Chief Magistrate.

We have not had a fairer man at the head of the Auditing department than General Hartranft, for say, many years. He has managed without quibbling, largely to increase the revenues of the State, and the firmness with which he executes the law in all instances, and against all parties, has unquestionably saved to the State, hundreds of thousands of dollars, which it would otherwise have lost.

A man thus disposed to do his duty, and when called upon never fearing to discharge his obligations, is the man to whom the people can look for good and faithful service.

We want in the State and in the National Government, more of these elements of accuracy, firmness, honesty, modesty, integrity and plain business qualification. Because, they constitute the qualifications of a statesmanship essential to State and National peace and prosperity.

Gen. Hartranft is a clever man—a clean man—in every particular. His personal habits like his official actions, are blameless and stainless, and we are satisfied, without presuming to depreciate other Republicans named for Governor, that he is the strongest man today in the Republican party.

He is the choice of the Republicans of Central Pennsylvania, and with him as their standard bearer, the Republicans in all parts of the State, will be able to give at least forty thousand majority in 1872.

We nail the name of our hero candidate to our Mast-head, knowing that the people will sanction our action. There may it remain until the second Tuesday of October, 1872. Then we are confident, the people will decide that it shall be recorded in the list of the distinguished Governors of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Let us carry out in good faith the promises we made to the soldiers in 1861. Let us show by our actions that the age of virtuous politics is not past and that we are determined to reward the soldier—the soldier statesman, the hero of Fort Stedman.

PRESIDENT MAKING.

Some of President Grant's would-be-opponents pretend to assume that there will be a contest for a candidate in the Republican party. It is hard to conceive by what method of prognosis they arrive at such a conclusion. If there were any sane men in the party whose palms have no illegitimate itching after the spoils of office, and whose eyes are not blinded by passion growing out of disappointment that their own estimate of themselves is far above that of their fellow men, and who can yet see a reasonable chance for any other candidate than President Grant for the next term of the Presidency, it would be well to give their opposition some attention. It seems quite sure that none such are now to be found.

It will be readily conceded that states representing a majority of the electoral college of 1872 have spoken their confidence in the Grant administration, not only by a popular vote, but also by resolutions virtually declaring for him all the way from Maine to Missisippi. The way for other candidates is therefore completely closed, and the President's death alone can open it. His nomination is already accomplished as a thing in esse though yet in futuro. It is even more sure now than it was at this time in 1867 for his first term.

What consumate folly is it then for Republicans to make capital for the outside opposition by continually venting their petty spleen upon him as some of them do. They should remember that individuals so limited in number cannot move a great party of principles; that principles move this great party, and the success of these is of an importance paramount to the private views of individuals. The people have confidence in hiss traight-forwardness and unswerving integrity of purpose. His steady hand and firm nerve is stil needed to keep the ship of State steady in the line of progress, and prosperity to the voyage will be thus assured.

To denounce him now, is to denounce also his administration and the verdict of the people in his favor. It can do no good under any possible circumstances, and may do harm to the crowning glory of our principles which can be attained only through party success. In the event of the death of our President prior to the meeting of the Convention—a thing not likely, but still possible to occur—who can doubt that the nation, including all parties, would sincerely mourn the hero of the greatest of wars, the man of incorruptible integrity, the saviour of the liberties of the people! In such a sad possibility what chance would there be for the immediate elevation of any pet of his spiteful calumniators to the place thus made vacant!

To moralize on the pitiful clamor of his assailants within the Republican organization would be supererogation. Common decency if not common sense should close their mouths and dry their slanderous pens, unless they really desire in their shining verdancy to get on the political fence just after the Democratic party has expired, with the view of falling into the arms of its ghastly corpse, as represented by the effete President making family whose brains seem to have expired long since with the political death of the father of the Blairs!

The impregnable position and serenity of the President under petty flaggellation is barely approached in degree by that of the husband in the old story who permitted his wife to hammer him whenever and as much as she desired, because, as he explained, "The hammering did'nt hurt him, and it was such a powerful satisfaction to Sally Ann."

The President, however, will not be so likely to appreciate the less playful daily exercise of his detractors who

"Show by smacks upon his back
How they esteem his merit!"

THE leading iron shops at Erie are shipping from six to ten engines per day to the oil country, and from two to three per week, with saw mills, to the west and south. The Steam saw mills made at that place, have world wide reputation for their excellence.

FALSEHOOD AND HYPOCRISY—WHY CAN THE WATCHMAN NOT TELL THE TRUTH?

"Too High" is Tax-payers caption to his puerile strategy as appears in the Watchman of the 8th inst., and puts us in mind of the boys that tied a stinking herring to a string trailed on the ground to deceive the hounds for a fox. That cock won't fight in these progressive days. As respects the statement of Tax-payer concerning the assessment and duplicates of the city of New York, we care little whether they are true or false. It is none of our business. It belongs to the "Tammany Ring"—all Simon pure Democrats, who stole, fleeced, robbed, the people of their taxes and the treasury of its funds, and the people ratified the thieving and embezzlement by electing Boss Tweed—the Jonathan Wild of the New York Democracy, to the Senate at the recent election, by 12,000 majority.

But what has Bellefonte or Centre county to do with New York city robery by her live Democrats, unless it is a point to cover up the peculations and embezzlement of the County Commissioners and their defaulting and speculating Tax-collectors.

We made the Watchman and Taxpayer a fair offer to act consistant, and honest in their attempts to lubricate the County Commissioners and their embezzling tax-collectors in their joint mouthings of the Borough authorities that when they did so, there might be a reciprocity of views as we are not the keepers of the borough functionaries.—But never a word is heard from the Watchman or Taxpayer on the mismanagement, embezzlement and favoritisms of the county custodians and Court House Ring.

Wherefore the Watchman and Taxpayer are engaged in dragging the stinking herring on a false trail, to lead the hunter off the track is too stale and like Esops Sharpers, we hear the one who stole say "I have not got it," and the one that had it say "I did not steal it." That day is gone by. The people are reading and inquiring and begin to ask how is this?

But, Tax-payer in running his stinking herring asks, "Will the REPUBLICAN please tell us why it is that the collectors that have not paid their duplicates are nearly all in Republican districts?" This insinuation is simply false, as the Auditor's report of the 2nd of January, 1871, published in the Watchman proves, where we find a list of defaulting collectors:

1864	Martin Murphy, Burnside, has in his hands	$ 176 32
1867	S F Isler, Benner	202 86
"	W F Tibbens, Marion	496 87
1868	Wm Askey, Burnside	66 15
"	Jacob Hosterman, Haines	692 01
"	D C Keller, Potter	638 83
1869	J R Boak, Burnside	178 78
"	Levi Krebs, Ferguson	377 94
"	S J Herring, Gregg	377 74
"	D Hosterman, Haines	470 15
"	Adam Yearick, Marion	170 76
"	D H Yeagher, Snow Shoe	146 44
1870	Jno Lutz, Benner	1,189 56
"	B Frenoffer, Burnside	201 96
"	H Theil, Curtin	214 88
"	Geo Moyer, Furguson	2,345 28
"	Samuel Herring, Gregg	1,887 50
"	Wm Harter, Haines	1,935 66
"	John S Hoy, Marion	1,108 12
"	Daniel Conser, Miles	1,088 37
"	J P Smith, Penn	1,648 01
"	H J Gates, Snow Shoe	408 82
"	Henry Dunkle, Walker	1,574 82

Are these Republican Districts? Are they not the stink holes of modern Democracy—the blind followers of the Court House Ring and the Watchman whose tax collectors are encouraged by the Ring in their peculation and speculation with the peoples taxes for doing the political dirty work of their employers?

The sycophant and time serving pedagogue over the signature of "Tax-payer" says, "The reason that the county duplicates in this borough for the years 1869 and 1870, are not paid is that W. W. Brown, L. L. D. and other radicals like him do not pay their taxes." What an apology for the defaulting, embezzling Democratic tax-collectors of the Borough. W. W. Brown's L. L. D. pittance of county taxes has caused the defalcation and embezzlement of D. F. Fortney, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and Collector of County and State taxes to the amount of $2,353,04.

He is ruined. His bail is ruined as W. W. Brown, L. L. D. does not owe him one cent No wonder that his bail like Felix of old are trembling, if the Commissioners dare live up to their last notice to defaulting collectors there would be in the Treasury a balance over all indebtedness of $5,123,69 if the Auditors report is true. Then where is the necessity of assessing six mills on the dollar, amounting to $79,511,95, on the people to pay the ordinary expenses of the county, when there has been no improvements of any importance being done the last or this year. Will the Watchman and "Tax-payer" explain? It would be more profitable than their Bosh system of the New York city Democratic assessments of taxation. Why Boss Tweed and confederates stole more of the peoples money raised by taxes—yea millions more than Tax-payer says the assessments amount to, and we will unite with Bellefonte Tax-payer in the last Watchman to get 4 or 6 auditors appointed from each party by the Court to audit the county and borough accounts and to report the embezzlers and defaulters of the county and Borough. Will you do it?

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Stability is one of the essential conditions of good government; and for this reason monarchies with their permanent Executive claim superiority over republics. We are frequently told that stable and orderly governments, even if not of very good quality, are better than those which are constantly subjected to political storms; and during the late dazzling reign of Napoleon there were thousands in the United States who professed to believe, "that a monarchy was better than the instability and partizan rancor of a republic."

Admitting that the power pass upon the political principles and personal qualifications of the men in office, at frequently recurring periods is an essential condition of a real Republic, and that all efforts to make the official tenure for life or for a long series of years are only so many admissions that the Republic is a failure, it does not follow that a Republican government must of necessity be unstable and frequently changed.

So that the people have the power to change every four years both the controlling organization and the men acting in its behalf, it is not necessary, that in the exercise of that power, the people must change either parties or men, for inadequate reasons. The history of the United States shows that political parties have been continued for many years, while a large number of the Presidents were re-elected. The Republican party which came into power with Jefferson in 1801 remained until 1825. Then there was four years of interregnum under Adams. Under Jackson the Democratic party was organized, which came into power in 1829 and continued until 1841. Then the people changed for a Whig Administration, but in 1844 James K. Polk was elected, and in 1849, owing to a division in the Democratic party, the Whigs again came into power. In 1853 Pierce, and 1857 Buchanan, were inaugurated as the last Democratic Presidents, while since the 4th of March 1861 the Republican party was entrusted with power. Thus it will be seen that political parties have not been frequently changed; and that in times of comparative peace they were long continued. Quite a number of Presidents were also re-elected; all of those, in fact, who were worthy of public consideration, with the exception of the elder Adams, who was personally exceedingly unpopular, and a representative of the Federal party. Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson and Lincoln were re-elected because the public judgment approved of their conduct; and as the Presidential year is again approaching these historical references are pertinent to the question to be considered.

The electors of the United States will shortly be called upon to decide two questions; first, whether they will continue to support the political principles and ideas of the Republican party; and secondly, whether they will demand a change in the personal of the Administration.

THE RECENT ELECTIONS.

The result of the recent elections, the confessions of leading Democrats, and the condition of public sentiment generally afford abundant evidence that the Republican party will be continued in power, and therefore the only question which we propose to discuss at this time is, does either the good of the country, or party necessity demand that the Executive Administration shall be changed? The Postal laws which provide that the old contractor shall retain his mail contracts if his bid is equally favorable with that of others, have been uniformly regarded as just and reasonable; and in the same manner the present Executive and his constitutional advisers have claims to continuance in office, unless it can be affirmatively shown that the affairs of the country would be more ably and honestly managed by new men, belonging to the same political organization.

These critics who promise so much for the future under new leaders are very careful to conceal the coming man. It is easy, but exceedingly unjust and a sure sign of demagoguism to make indefinite and general promises of what might be done, without pointing out the man or the particular means which are to accomplish the result.

From all appearances it is the judgment of more than four fifths of the members of the Republican party that General Grant should be renominated; and this judgment is not based upon blind enthusiasm for a particular man, nor upon the subsidized opinion of officials, but upon calm examination and deliberation. Strange and unaccountable as this assertion may be to Carl Schurz, Dana and Blair, whose judgments are obscured by anger, it is time, nevertheless, and we propose to indicate a few of the grounds of this favorable opinion.

Republics may be ungrateful, as it is said, but the people of the United States have not entirely forgotten General Grant's military services, extending over a period ten times as long and ten times as bloody as the conflict recently waged between Germany and France. They remember his earnestness, patriotism, liberality in the praise of subordinates, moderation in victory, and extreme modesty in the hour of personal triumph. They recollect, moreover, that notwithstanding his limited experience in civil administration, his inaugural address and two first messages as well as his occasional recommendations, were conspicuous for their breadth of judgment and comprehensive statesmanship. Envenomed partizanship and bitter personal hostility were unable to find but a single flaw in those documents, and this was the San Domingo project.

In our opinion the basis of this assault was extremely narrow, a mere difference of opinion upon an unimportant subject, and was only made respectable by the very great special pleading abilities of Sumner and Schurz. Personally we are decidedly in favor of annexation, because we firmly believe that sooner or later the entire North American continent will be absorbed by the Great Republic. The conjured and imaginary dangers of annexing a few thousand San Domingians has no terror for us, for we have greater faith than Schurz seems to have in the vitality of Republican life. But, no matter on which side Republicans may range themselves upon this insignificant side issue, they neither call in question the President's insincerity or integrity; nor does the evidence disclose the fact that either General Babcock or any other authorized American negotiator was influenced by personal or improper motives.

WISDOM OF THE ADMINISTRATION.

The majority of the Republican party believe that success in the recent elections; and the popularity of Republican principles are in great part owing to the moderation, sound judgment, and unswerving integrity of the Administration that shaped the political issues.

But it is said the general conduct of the Administration, which is a model of economy for all times, may be acceptable but General Grant's personal conduct will not bear scrutiny. And why not? Why will Republicans forever repeat and take for granted vile and scurrilous libels of political foes, without insisting upon strict proof. No man has set a higher value upon his personal integrity and self-respect than President Grant.

The first charge is that he has accepted pecuniary presents from personal and political friends. Some of these gentlemen, being men of high political and personal standing were subsequently appointed to office, but many of them never sought, expected, or obtained a place. General Grant came out of the war no richer than he entered it; but he had achieved a position for life with an income proportionally larger than that of President. By accepting the Presidency he brought a great pecuniary sacrifice, for all must concede that an income, as General, of $18,000 per annum for life is much larger than $25,000 for four years. If in these circumstances private liberality supplied the place of national appreciation, it is contemptable to prate about a matter with which the public has no concern.

At the conclusion of the late German French war, Bismarck, Moltke, and the other leading Generals received over a million of dollars from the National Treasury; and it is indeed pitiful to see the meanness of human nature which would begrudge for the great and inestimable services of preserving the Republic, a comparatively small pecuniary compensation, which personal liberality would tender. If the President did not consider himself above bribery, and his whole career has proved that no man has a higher regard for his personal honor, he would not have accepted these tributes of affection and admiration. If Congress had voted to our victorious Generals a single days expenses of the war, amounting, as it did, to three millions of dollars, they would have been independently rich; and yet, the least that can be said about Grant and Sherman is, that they brought the war, by their genius, a year sooner to a conclusion, than it would have been under other leaderships.

The next charge is that he appointed personal relatives and friends to office. This is one of those malicious charges which reminds one, of the school boy, who to revenge himself on the brother, made mouths at the sister. It is not charged that these persons have not performed their duties well; or that in exceptional cases where this was not the case, he did not promptly remove them. The masses of the people care but little who holds the office so that the duties, thereto appertaining, are discharged with fidelity, and if the President has employed some men whom he knew himself, instead of appointing those only who were recommended by others, he did it, no doubt, for the good of the Civil Service.

Dana, of the N. Y. Sun, who was disappointed in his application for the collectorship, and whose entire conduct is based upon hatred, has published a list of some thirty names, who are said to be related to the President in some way, if only as third cousins to his wife. Now it would seem to us that citizens have rights independent of those of the President, and it would prevent any person from holding an office because he happened to be a cousin or some other relative of the President's family.

Perhaps we have paid too much attention to these foolish and pitiful charges, but as these are all that have been advanced and as they are restated, from day to day, as if they really were serious, it is perhaps better to meet them in detail.

HOW THE DEBT HAS BEEN DIMINISHED.

As an offset to these complaints, there stands the fact that upwards of two hundred millions of dollars of the public debt have been paid; that two hundred millions more have been refunded at five per cent., thus saving two millions per annum in interest; and that the entire debt can shortly be refunded at the same uniform rate. During the same time the taxes have been reduced more than eighty millions per annum, and will be further diminished. Peace has been maintained at home, among the Indians, and with foreign nations. The Treaty of Washington has restored mutual confidence between England and America. The Civil Service Commission, composed or most intelligent and able men are devising a new code for the Civil Service. The better protection of immigrants has engaged the attention of the Administration; the claims of the workingmen have been favorably considered; and, in fact, every proper and matured measure of reform and progress has met with a cordial reception by the Executive.

In view of these facts, it would be trifling with our liberties and precious privileges if we were to inaugurate new men to gratify the personal animosities of a few. Good, stable and progressive governments, reflecting the will of the best thinkers, are too rare to be undervalued. Duty and patriotism alike require that this Administration shall be continued as the best possible means whereby the progressive ideas of the land shall be matured and converted into living laws.

If our German born citizens are desirous of commanding the respect of the English speaking community, the ensuing Presidential campaign affords them a magnificent opportunity; because by a close union with the progressive elements of American society they can obtain a powerful influence in shaping American political thought.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

THE SOUL'S DESPAIR.

BY RICHARD H. STODDARD.

Why stand ye gazing into heaven?
What seek ye there? what hope to find
Besides the clouds, which the cold wind
Drives round the world from morn to even?
The wan moon, ploughed with ancient scars?
The gracious sun, the allon stars,
The all-embracing Space?
Ye look for God?
Have ye beheld him there?
You or your fathers in their prime?
Or any man at any time.—
The wise, the good the fair?
Who has beheld—I will not say his face,
But where his feet have trod?
What have your straing eyes
Discovered in the skies?
Why not look down the Sea?
'Tis deep, and most creative; what eludes
In the upper solitudes,
Still lurking in the lower wastes may be!
Ye look for God, ye tell me. Tell me this,
How know ye that He is?
Because your fathers told ye so and they
Because, of old, their fathers told them so;
As it is no, so was it long ago,
And will be when the years have passed away.

Nothing can come from nothing. Well, what then?
The Earth, with all its men,—
The little insect burrowing in the sod,—
Sun, planet star,
All things that are,
Must have been made by God!
Why made by Him? Who saw them made!
Who saw the deep foundations laid?
The hand that built the wall!
Why made at all?
Why not Eternal,—tell me? Not because
It must created be;
If so Eternal He,—
But why Eternal?—why not also This?
Why must the All be His?
It was, and is, and is, because it was!

There is no God then? Nay,
You say it, and not I;
I do but say
We have not yet beheld this God on High!
Not knowing that He is, we live and die!
If we know nothing of Him, yet we feel.
We feel love's kisses sweet,—
The wine that trips our feet,—
The murderous thrust of steel:—
Gladness about the heart when the sun breaks,
Or the soft moon is floating up the skies,
Delight in the wild sea, in tranquil lakes,
In every bird that flies;
And hot tears in our eyes,
When love, the best of earth, its last kiss ever dies!
But, He whom we name God, and grope so far above,
Whose arm, we fear, is Power, whose heart we hope, is Love,
On the worlds below Him,
In the dust before Him,
We may adore Him,
We cannot know Him,
If, indeed, He be, to bless or curse,
And be not this tremendous Universe!

"Higher than your arrows fly,
Deeper than your pummels fall,
Is the Deepest the Most High,
Is the All in All!"

MY FIFTY DOLLAR NOTE.

I was greatly disappointed. I suffered supreme vexation. Almost three o'clock, a note 'to take up,' and my little green pocket-book lost—lost with my fifty dollar note!

An old friend wanted fifty dollars for absolute necessity. I loaned it, took his note, and threw it in bank. Trouble prevented it being honored. There was a protest, and I compelled to lift the paper.

My money was invested, and at that time it was hard for me to get even a small amount, unless by borrowing. For this I had a positive aversion. It wanted but twelve minutes of three, I was in bank, but moneyless!

A happy thought—there were "three day's grace," and in this I saw my salvation.

I went to an old lawyer who had invested my capital, determining to draw the sum, even at risk of injury to business. The old gentleman had gone West. I had but one resource—borrowing.

Never will I forget that "day on 'Change." It seems some had reported me insolvent. Somebody, thinking my capital was in oil stock, and in a certain collapsed company, predicated my beggary because of the failure of the said company.

The news was all over the city. Some parties saw me sewing for a living. Others declared I would open a boarding house, and, because of a little elocutional power, several others "knew" I would "resort to the theatre." The necessity for borowing being contemporaneous with these reports, the case was made clear to hitherto blunt visions, and people exclaimed, "I told you so!"

Owing to an exclusive nature I had but few intimates. These were literary people—the very class most unable to confer monied favors.

To a few rich friends I quickly repaired. But lo! that report!—it had preceeded me, and it was refused, with a hint that "one dollar would be contributed for a sewing machine."

I was both mirth and anger-moved. I tried my entire list of monied people, but no luck.

That report did it. Some feared my future ability to pay. None cared to run a risk in "such tight times," while excuse-lies were shed as profusely as an author's ink.

I tried my literary friends. They were tender, but poor. There was an ample stock of sympathy, but no fifty dollars came. There were unsolicited proffers to speak well for my "boarding house," or to interpose "for store and theatre situations."

I had a handful in canvassing and denying these reports. Every petty creditor presented a bill, and not with the olden politeness. At last, when a party proposed that I raise the fifty by a "dollar subscription," then, in a state of frenzy, I took my gold watch and pawned it. The money was raised, but I was lowered, for two of my rich list saw me, and confirmed the report.

The paper was lifted, and I fiery enough, as well as educated in world ways.

About one week after my bank business, I was on Chestnut street promenading, and awaiting the return of my lawyer as the event to place me aright before the community. When between Tenth and Eleventh, I heard the following from two young ladies. They walked before me and at my speed, so there was a fine chance to hear all they said.

"It was a narrow escape, was it not?"

"Indeed it was. Had I been home from Saratoga, she should never of had that trouble."

"I too was absent. How it pains me. To think of such a lovely young widow and mother having her goods set in the street because she could not raise her rent! Is not this law terrible, Sophie?"

"You're right, Hattie. I would never marry a lawyer, and, as for sheriffs and constables, the least said the better."

"Is it true her child was sick and lying out in the rain, while the mother was trying to borrow?"

"It is true!" You see it was so unexpected to the neighbors, but after a half hour the little typhoid girl was removed to the shop of an old candy woman, and a poor boot-black saw that no one stole from the humble stock in the street."

"Who would have thought that Alice Mortimer would have had such a fate?"

"Sure enough! and after such a wealthy marriage."

Here the ladies were about turning down Twelfth street, when I tapped one on the arm, and said:

"Miss, pardon me, but accidentally hearing your story, and, as it involves a familiar name, please tell me is this Alice—Alice Mortimore of No. 84——street?"

"It is the very same."

"And do you say she is over her trouble, and repossessed of her rooms?"

"I am happy to say such is the fact."

Thanks were returned, all bowed, and I immediately sought my unfortunate schoolmate of No. 84.

On reaching the house I found Alice in excellent spirits, and little Nellie Mortimer convalescing rapidly.

On my entrance, the mother and I embraced and wept. I thought if some noble man had seen her madonna face, made so heavenly by joyful tears, she would soon have had repose on another bosom than mine. Here followed the entire history of her case. She had been sick, unable to work, and needed money. People of wealth did not pay—some were out of town, and some angry that a mantua-maker "would dare to dun them."

So it went; sickness, no money, failure at borrowing, and the inexorable landlord. While her pride was undeciding her as to action, the said inexorable had determined to put her in the street, and there she went with delicacy from the law officer.

After listening a long time; hearing her bright hopes for the future, and sympathizing at her failure in effecting a loan, I said:

"But tell me, Allie, where did you get the money that saved you?"

"Out of this, my dear friend," and she held it up in triumph.

"And where did you get that?"

"I found it on Arch street, after being snubbed by those who owed me."

Reader, as true as I write, she held up my little green pocket book. She was saved by my fifty dollar note!

I told her all. There was a sensation. I do not say it for applause, but I presented her the amount, asking nothing but love in return

As our tears again commingled I thought of the old adage, "That it is an ill-wind that blows no one any good."

You And The World.

"The world owes me a living," said a young man, while educating himself to be a nobody. It is a great mistake. The world is not a debtor to you, but you are a debtor to the world, and you cannot work too hard to discharge your obligation. It not only does not owe you anything, but it is not going to pay you anything except as you earn it. And just as fast as you do that it will pay, not wealth necessarily, and not what you may call success or repute, but the honest return for your labors. We are none of us going to thrive except by work—not by waiting for this or that, not by looking to this and the other man, not expecting to be lifted, booted to success. There are Macawbers the world over—men waiting for the world to get ready to pay the obligations they suppose it to be under, men as miserably useless as they are contemptible. The fact is, this a very busy world—a bit selfish if you will—and too thoroughly absorbed in various and varying interests to think much about individual men, young or old. Any one of us is of very little consequence, and if you would like a healthy snub to your estimate of yourself, shut yourself up a week and see how superbly indifferent the world is to your absence, and with what marvelous facility it accommodates itself to your loss. The fly upon the coach wheel in the fable is not more insignificant. The only thing that gives significance to you is your work, your industry and fidelity.

Woman's Curiosity.

They have very nice people over at the Howland House, Long Branch. They are the cream of Philadelphia society, but some of them do very queer things. An affair has just leaked out which is a little out of the way of the best regulated families. I am sorry to bring an action against one of my own sex. The curiosity of Eve brought all the trouble we have in the world upon us, and from that day to this nothing stops a woman when her curiosity is up, especially if she is curious to know something about herself, her husband, or her lover. Only hold a secret in your hand and if it's like a bunch of catnip to a cat, she will jump, frisk and frolic around, and never give over purring until she gets it. The story is this: A husband was in the habit of visiting Chamberlain's Cottage, which is the resort of a great many fashionable gentlemen. The wife heard in some way that he was fairly enchanted by the game, and was a heavy looser. Woman's curiosity was exercised to see the game herself, and by some device to cure him of his passions. She broached the matter to her brother, but he could suggest no way. She made a confidant of a lady friend, who proposed they should visit the house and confront the husband at the table. For a week and more the subject was gravely considered, when it was resolved that they should disguise themselves in gentlemen's clothes. How to do that was the next thing. The lady's brother was obliged to leave in a day or two for Philadelphia on business. He left, and, having the key to his room, the ladies soon found the wardrobe desired. Disguised as two fashionable young men they entered Chamberlin's splendid saloon about ten o'clock in the evening. Fortunately for them, quite a crowd of persons were surrounding the tables. The lady took position so as to look her husband full in the face. Throwing down a ten-dollar bill, she said, "Ten dollars on the red." The husband, whose mind was so intent on the game, had not been attracted by the new comers until he heard the voice. When he raised his head he saw it was his wife. With wonderful self composure he settled his account and left the house. The lady won her first turn, and, following the example of her husband, left, as she came in, with her campanion, unnoticed. She joined her husband, for he was in waiting for her outside. I have only to say that he was deeply mortified, and promised to turn over a new leaf. Woman's curiosity, you see, has done some good.

Meridian of Life.

Terrible as they are, youthful disappointments are by no means the worst things in the world. Not one in five thousand but what survives them and does well. They only show us what we want, or, better yet, what we really don't want. It is a good thing in this world to know what you don't want. Thoughtful young people in the latter half of their teens, probably without exception, are thrown into a muddle of conflicting hope. It is a most perplexing muddle, too. They are all morally certain that they shall do great things some day, and show the stupid old world what's what, or, if not exactly what's what, at least who's who. Perhaps in a general way they care more about the who's who than the what's what. Each one knows he can be an extraordinary something or somebody But he dosen't know what to be—can't tell for his life in what particular direction to turn his mighty gifts.

I knew a young man who tried successively to be a lawyer, a doctor, a preacher, a merchant, and a Methodist, which brings him down to middle age and the present time; when I regret to say that the golden aspirations of his youth have ended in his becoming a manufacturer of tombstones. Perhaps the occupation followed logically enough as a result of long and mournful contemplation over the graves of so many buried hopes. In truth, the ambitions desires of our early days are mostly enveloped in a very dim, uncertain glamour; and the crude, unreal years during which the majority of mankind are afflicted with youthful aspirations are not highly satisfying when looked at in retrospect. An hour of the strong will, and bright, steady hopes of middle age, is worth a life-time of them.

We talk about great moral attainments. One of the greatest moral attainments that one could make, would be to become uniform in transparent truthfulness and real guiltlessness of soul.

He who causes a blade of grass to spring up where none grew before is a blessing to the world, what praise shall be given him who creates a smile where flowed a tear?

"Don't shiver for last year's snow," a saying of Archbishop Whately's is particularly applicable to those who make themselves miserable over troubles that are passed.

It is a curious fact that though the rain keeps thousands away from church on Sunday, it does not deter a single man from attending to his business on week days.

Truthfulness is a corner-stone in character; and if it be not firmly laid in youth, there will always be a weak spot in the foundation.

Droll Customs.

The lately revived custom of throwing shoes afrer a newly-married couple for luck, is a very old one. In some parts of Kent, the shoe-throwing does not take place until after they are gone; where the single ladies range themselves in one line, and the bachelors arrange themselves in another. An old shoe is then thrown as far as the thrower's strength permits, and the ladies rush after it, the winner being rewarded by the assurance that she will be married before any of her rivals. She then throws the shoe at the gentlemen, the one she hits laying the same pleasing unction to his heart.

Something like this is practiced in Yorkshire and Scotland. In Germany it used to be the rule for the bride, as she was being conducted to her chamber, to take off her shoe and throw it among the guests, who battled for its possession; the successful he or she being destined to be speedily married and settled.

In England, the bride, from between the sheets, threw her left stocking over the shoulder of one of the company, the person upon whom it fell being marked out as the next individual to be married. In some places the threshold is kept warm for another bride, by pouring a kettleful of hot water on the doorsteps as soon as the bride and bridegroom have taken their departure; the fancy being, that before the water dries up another match will be made up, or "flow on," and that it will not be long before another wedded couple passed over the same ground.

In Prussia, the method adopted of invoking blessings on a newly married pair used to be the more expensive one of smashing crockery up against the front door of the house in which they were domiciled.

The Value of a Newspaper.

The following is the experience of a mechanic, concerning the benefits of a newspaper:

Ten years ago I lived in a town in Indiana. On returning home one night, for I am a carpenter by trade, I saw a little girl leave my door, and I asked my wife who she was. She said Mrs. Harris had sent her after their newspaper, which my wife had borrowed. As we sat down to tea, my wife said to me, by my given name:

"I wish you would subscribe for the newspaper, it is so much comfort to me when you are away from home."

"I would like to do so, said I, but you know I owe a payment on the house and lot. It will be all I can do to meet it."

She replied:

"If you will take this paper, I will sew for the tailor to pay for it."

I subscribed for the paper, it came in due time to the shop. While resting one noon, and looking over it, I saw an advertisement of the county commissioners to let a bridge that was to be built.

I put in a bid for the bridge, and the job was awarded to me, on which I cleared three hundred dollars, which enabled me to pay for my house and lot easily, and for the newspaper. If I had not subscribed for the newspaper I would not have known anything about the contract, and could not have met my payment on my house and lot. A mechanic never loses anything by taking a newspaper.

Good-by.

How emotions cluster around that word! How full of sadness, and to us, how full of sorrow it sounds! We heard it once within the year, we hope never to hear it again. It was in the chamber of death, and the chill hour of night's noon. The curtains of the windows were all closed, the lights were all shaded, and we stood in the dim and solemn twilight with others, around the bed of the dying. The damps of death were on her pale young brow, and coldness was on her lips, as we kissed her the last time while living. "Good by, my daughter," we whispered, and "Good-by, father," came from her dying lips. We know not if she ever spoke more, but "Good-by" was the last we ever heard from her own sweet voice. We hear the sorrowful word often and often as we sit alone, busy with the memories of the past. We hear it in the silence of the night, in the hours of nervous wakefulness, as we lie upon our bed thinking of the loved and lost to us. We hear it in our dreams, when her sweet face comes back to us. We hear it as we sit beside the grave in the cemetery where she sleeps alone, with no kindred as yet by her side. She was the hope of our life, the prop to lean against when age should come upon us, and life should be running to its dregs. The hope and the prop are gone, and we care not how soon we go down to sleep beside our darling beneath the shadow of the trees in the city of the dead.

Learn that happiness is not outside, but inside. A good heart and a clear conscience bring happiness, which no riches and no circumstances alone ever do.

Memory is a patient camel, bearing huge burdens over life's sandy desert. Intuition is a bird of paradise, drinking in the aroma of celestial flowers.

Consider the cause of the good standing of some, and decline and fall and want of success of others, and regulate your conduct accordingly.

NO NAME.

BY ETHYL LYNN.

What shall we call our baby, wife?
The queer we mortal thing,
With battling hand and restless foot,
And ear like midge's wing.

We'll give her chrism sweet and small
A word that's soft and low,
A sound to hear from lips of love,
As days of earth life go.

Pansy, or Rose, or Daisy, dear?
Helen, or Grace, or Fay?
We've called her "Baby" long enough,
'Tis near her christ'ning day.

You don't care, do you, Baby, dear
You'll gabble, cry, and crow,
If we should call you Polly Ann,
If we but speak it low.

But by and by, my woman child,
For tones you love to hear,
Your name shall be a fairy boat,
To bear sweet love-notes near.

And so it shall be soft and sweet,
Nor grate as sounds go by;
So, sweet, I can't decide to-day—
I'll find one by and by.

* * * * *

Ice-cold, and like a waxen thing,
The quiet sleeper lies,
With hands upfolded on its breast,
And soul gone home to Paradise.

Its small life lived, its sheaf tears
Bound in a bundle small,
It folded thus its waxen hands
At some Almighty call.

Our listning ear no accents caught,
No name like earth-born word;
But still methinks an angel called
"Baby," and Baby heard.

Horrible.

Of the dead of the Paris sewers a Paris letter says:—The dead, hastily buried during the "battles of seven days," are exhumed during the night and transferred far outside the city and reburied in deep trenches, filled with quicklime—the nearest approach to cremation. The men employed in this work wear large leather aprons and gloves of the same material. The body of the truck or tumbrel consists of two movable parts, each capable of containing six corpses; these are let down to the sides of the grave, and, when filled, the remains are sprinkled with carbolic acid, closed up, the empty graves dosed with chloride of lime, and the earth filled in. The men employed in this painful work suffer nothing in health, thus proving that those engaged in occupations subjected to so many deadly taints escape. In the recent plague at Buenos Ayres, where thousands were buried daily, not a single grave digger fell a victim to the malady. Several bodies continue to be washed out of the sewers, where the insurgents sought a last refuge; after being examined for documents of identity, and such not being discovered, the remains are photographed, and if not too decomposed, are exposed in the morgue for some hours. The photographs of the unknown are deposited in the ministry of police.

A Law-Suit With A Moral.

A curious action is now pending in one of our New York Courts, in which Anna Scheinert, a young woman of about twenty years of age, asks to have her marriage with Ferdinand Scheinert declared null and void, on the ground that it was performed while the plaintiff was under fourteen years of age, and against her will. The plaintiff's father is a wealthy down town merchant. The defendant is a Hungarian, and was introduced to the family as a needy music teacher. He gained their confidence, and frequently took the girl out for a walk. On the 24th of April, 1865, Scheinert took his pupil to the house of a friend on Thirty-sixth street, and there, according to her story, forced her to marry him. His friend officiated as a priest, and performed the services in Latin. Acting upon her fears, he prevented her from telling her parents. Three or four days afterwards he took Anna out as usual, and then forced her to accompany him to Montreal, where she lived a miserable life for eight months. Her whereabouts was accidentally discovered by her father, and he took means to bring her back. The referee has reported in her favor. The whole story shows the folly of the unrestricted intimacy which parents are too apt to allow strangers to have with their daughters.

On an ancient tombstone in a graveyard in Winglow, Me., is inscribed. "Here lies the body of Richard Thomas, and Englishman by birth, a Whig of '76, by occupation a cooper, now food for worms; like an old rum puncheon marked, numbered and shooked, he will be raised again and finished by hi Creator."

A Correspondent who devotes much time to "reading up" the religious weeklies, thinks the reason these journals afford so much space to quack medicine announcements is that the object of religion and quackery are similar, because both prepare for another and better world.

THE KU-KLUX REIGN OF TERROR.

SYNOPSIS OF A PORTION OF THE TESTIMONY TAKEN BY THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

No. VIII.

ALABAMA CONTINUED.

Rev. A. S. Lakin, a Minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, residing at Huntsville, testifies that in the fall of 1867 he was appointed presiding elder of the Montgomery district; that while traveling upon his circuit he was first made aware of the objects and intentions of an organization which proved to be the Ku Klux Klan. Received his information from men whom he afterwards learned were prominent members of the Democratic party, who spoke of it as an auxiliary to their party.

Witness says that about two weeks before the last Presidential election, about eight o'clock at night, some one fired a gun heavily loaded into the window of his house, at which he had been sitting all during the day. The shot passed through the shutters, window, and curtains, and struck on the wall immediately over the head of himself and family. After being repeatedly warned of his danger he fled to the mountains, where he remained as a refugee for two months.

Witness was shot at twice while riding along in open daylight.

A riot occurred at Huntsville, about two weeks before the Presidential election, when, during the progress of a political meeting of the Republicans, about one hundred and fifty men, fully armed, and all disguised, rode into the court-house square, and, at a given signal; commenced firing. Judge Silas Thurlow, one of the Republican speakers, was mortally wounded, and died in three days. A colored man was instantly killed, and others were seriously wounded.

A church on Mr. Feeran's plantation, where witness was holding quarterly meeting, was burned.

The following is a list of persons who have been the victims of the most "fiendish barbarity," who have for the most part come under the personal cognizance of Mr. Lakin, and from whose lips he has heard the sad story of their wrongs:

Rev. Mr. Hill, (a native Alabamian,) a Minister of the M. E. Church at Eutaw, was terribly whipped and driven from the State, and is now in Illinois.

Rev. J. A. McCutcheon, a presiding elder of the Methodist Church, (born and raised in Alabama,) was forcibly driven from the Demopolis district in 1868.

Rev. James Buchanan, of the Methodist Church, (born and raised in Blount county, Alabama,) was driven from the Tuscaloosa circuit; was fired upon in his house and on the highway, and notified to leave on pain of death. Left the State.

Rev. John W. Tally, of the M. E. Church, (a native of Alabama,) an old traveling Minister of the Church, (before it was divided,) and who was the presiding elder of the Talledega district, was forced to leave the State. Is now in Missouri

Rev. Moses B. Sullivan, of the M. E. Church, (a native of the South,) was taken from his bed at eleven o'clock at night, while at the house of a friend, and brutally whipped, so that he was almost insensible. Was forced to leave the State.

Dean Reynolds, a colored man, who was a local preacher, was taken from his home, beaten, and left for dead. Both of his arms were broken, one in two places. This was in 1868.

In 1869 Jesse Knight, a local preacher, was shot in his own house in Morgan county, and died in a few days. Had lived all his life in the county where he was shot. He was a steady, sober, and intelligent man, almost universally respected.

Rev. Mr. Johnson, a local preacher at Fayetteville, (a native of Alabama,) was shot dead in the pulpit while preaching. This was in 1869.

Rev. James Donnan, a member of the Conference, was brutally whipped on Sunday after the service, and was forced to leave the circuit.

Another man, who joined the last Conference, was murdered, as was also his son, on the line of the West Point and Montgomery Railroad.

The same witness testifies to the following cases which occurred in the same portion of the State:

In January, 1869, George Taylor, who was living ar Cherokee, Colbert county, was taken out of his bed and brutally whipped until he was thought to be dead.

About this time three (3) colored men were taken at night by a band of disguised men, and hung from a bridge at Tuscumbia. One of the victims was named Johnson.

In December, 1868, William Blair was aroused from sleep, taken out of his house, and after receiving a terrible scourging, was almost, if not actually, cut to pieces. Scarcely a place was there on his body that had not been cut or gashed by some sharp instrument. Witness visited him (as he did most of the others already mentioned) and found his sufferings beyond description. He died in a spasm shortly afterwards. The parties engaged in this outrage were all identified, as they simply had on gowns, their faces not being concealed. They were sworn to before the grand jury. Judge Charlton, the foreman of the grand jury, came to Huntsville, and expressed his determination to "go to the bottom of this affair," yet before Judge Charlton reached his home in Summerville, he was clandestinely murdered at Decatur. He was killed at night, and seven buck-shot were found in his body.

On the night of July 24th, William Campbell was shot twice while in bed, and was then forced to arise and go outside of the house, and while these wretches compelled him to lean up against the fence, they fired at him several times, wounding him in seven places. He died in about one hour.

About this time three colored men were taken out and whipped.

On the 13th March, 1869, Prior Turner, then living at Huntsville, was called out by disguised men and shot in the shoulder.

On the 13th May, 1870, Simon and Hezekiah Rush, colored, were both taken out by a band of disguised men and severely whipped.

A lady in Blount county was whipped so terribly that she died of her injuries. The cause assigned was that she had informed of persons whom she saw dressing in the Ku Klux disguise.

Gov. R. B. Lindsay, at present Governor of the State, testifies that he has no personal knowledge of any organization of Ku Klux further than the rumors that prevail in regard to them.

In 1868 witness saw five disguised men pass through the streets of Tuscumbia. They were on horses.

Witness thinks the Ku Klux Klan was organized to counteract the effects of the Union Leagues, but does not think that the former is of a political character, although as far as his information goes he has never heard anybody charged with belonging to it who did not belong to the Democratic party.

James H. Clanton, late Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of the State of Alabama, (recently deceased,) testified that he did not think there is now, or has been at any time heretofore, an organization known as the Ku Klux Klan.

Witness thought that although the members of the Democratic party are opposed to negro suffrage, yet if they should get into power and find that the increased representation by virtue of the negro vote (especially in the South) would counterbalance the evil of such an ignorant mass voting, they might vote to continue it.

James B. Clark, a Democrat, who was formerly Chancellor of the Middle Division of Alabama, and who has lived in the State for 40 years, testifies that he has no doubt but that an organization of the Ku Klux Klan has existed in Alabama.

Witness thinks it would not be entirely safe to call political meetings of the colored people in the present state of feeling there.

Turner Reavis, (a resident of Alabama since 1838 formerly Judge of the Circuit Court, and now an attorney, testifies that there is more respect for the law and less crime committed now than there has been at any time since the close of the war; that they have mixed juries, white and black, and that the verdicts are about as correct generally as they were at any time before the war, both in civil and criminal cases.

Richard Burke, a Baptist minister, and formerly witness' slave, was taken out of his house by about twenty disguised men and murdered. He was living on witness' plantation and was universally liked.

About sixty disguised men all armed appeared at a village called Pleasant Ridge about 12 o'clock in the day time, and went through cavalry evolutions, although not a word was spoken.

Witness thinks it would not be safe in the prosecution of these persons for being concerned in these outrages for a witness to testify.

Edmund W. Pettus, (a brigadier general in the Confederate army,) residing at Selma, thinks that the outrages in the South are the result of a terrible war that has left in the South a very bad element.

Frank Diggs, a colored man of excellent character, and connected with the mail service on the Selma and Meridian Railroad, was killed by some one in disguise.

Witness thinks that other outrages of a serious character have been committed, but earnestly hopes for a better state of affairs.

Joseph W. Speed, who was born and educated in Virginia, but who has lived in Alabama since 1868, testifies that he was an officer in the Confederate army during the war; that he has been told by many colored men that they never intended to vote or do anything to do with an election again and that they were afraid to exercise their rights of franchise.

Witness has actual knowledge of many cases of outrages, and gives the following as the most important.

In May last Isaac Hall, a colored man, was taken out and severely whipped.

On February last Alfred Darling, a colored man, was taken at night and whipped. He was represented to witness by "white Democrats" to be of good character.

In the middle of April, Marie Hartley and her son were both shot by disguised men.

About the last of May, Katie LaGrove, an old woman, was taken out and terribly beaten.

At the same time Mr. Greathouse was shot and killed by disguised men.

Geo. A. Clark, a subject of Great Britain, while teaching a colored school in 1870, was taken from his house by disguised men, whipped terribly, then shot and afterwards hung, and supposing him to be dead, for he was insensible, they let him down. He recovered, however, crawled away, and made his escape from the county. He had a good reputation, but was punished in this manner because he taught a negro school.

The outrages that are committed by these bands of disguised men are almost invariably upon negroes or white men that are Republicans. There is a feeling of hostility against anybody who is an active Republican.

Even students at the State University receive notices from the Ku Klux Klan, and are compelled to leave the school.

From the best information witness could obtain, there are several counties in the State of Alabama in which, during the last year, there was very great intimidation and violence. Did not believe that any candid man of any politics could say that there was a fair expression of the political sentiment of Greene and Sumpter counties in the last election. The violence that had been perpetrated before the election prevented a fair expression of the popular sentiment. This has not been confined to Greene and Sumpter counties. There has been violence everywhere.

Believes that these acts of violence and terrorism were gotten up for the purpose of influencing the election.

Has heard of bodies of disguised men in St. Louis and Walker counties.

Judge S. F. Rice, formerly chief justice of the Supreme Court of the State, besides holding other important positions, (a resident of the State for forty years,) testifies as to the general state of lawlessness in the State, especially before the last election, and thinks that in many portions of the State persons are not free to express or advocate their political opinions with freedom and personal security.

Witness has no idea but that the Ku Klux Klan is anything else but political, and always operates in the interests of the Democratic party.

Judge Rice was a Democrat, and a member of the Democratic Convention in 1868.

AN INVOLUNTARY COMPLIMENT.

The Democratic press generally sums up its feeble criticism upon the President's message by styling it an "electioneering document," as they confess, it must certainly advocate popular measures in a popular manner. What is usually styled a mere electioneering document is an essay which advocates a popular subject, either in an insincere manner, or that drags in a subject not germane for the purpose of catching popular applause. Before the Democratic press can make good that charge they must prove one or both of the above propositions. If on the other hand the message is an electioneering document, because it is calculated by its sincerity, by its patriotic aspirations, and by its sound views upon all public questions, to secure the good-will of the masses of the intelligent voters of the United States, then it is a state paper of which the President may justly be proud.

Whatever cannot be successfully assailed must be belittled; when it is impossible to find fault with the substance, isolated expressions and the exterior style must be criticised and ridiculed. However, we venture to say that there is not a farmer or mechanic in the United States—and these thank God form the great majority of the Nation—who is not better satisfied with this plain unassuming, modest and almost diffident exposition of the Nation's affairs, than with any highfalutin sentences which a Carl Schurz will indite.

Last year the Democratic press swore that Grant could not write a message at all; but this year they concede he might have written this one, but that he wrote it in wretched style. This is progress. Next year when the election is over, and Grant is chosen by overwhelming majorities they may possibly concede that Grant's style pleased the people. In these circumstances we have great hopes for our Democratic friends, remembering

"That while the lamp holds out to burn
The vilest sinner may return."

Last week an accident happened at Turkey Hill, on the Columbia and Port Deposit railroad, that resulted in the loss of a leg to a workman named Patrick Delaney.

STAR SPANGLED BANNER.—This favorite family paper takes its 100,000 readers by surprise in the issue for January, 1872, just received.. It is enlarged to same size as N. SENATOR CAMERON.—The Somerset Herald says: "Before the meeting of Congress the knowing ones gave out with many wise shakes of the head, that the venerable Senator from this State would have to give way, and that Mr. Summer would be restored to the head of the Committee on Foreign Relations. These wise ones were mistaken. Gen. Cameron having demonstrated his fitness for the position, was reappointed without a struggle, thus receiving a merited compliment personally, and the State he represents an honor coveted by many others."

THE extent of the manufacture of German silverware at Waterbury, Conn., can be judged from the fact that over $500,000 worth of German silver is carted from Waterbury to Wallingford yearly, at an expense of from five to ten thousand dollars, and the amount is constantly increasing.

THE AMERICAN WASHER?

PRICE $5.50

THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME AND DRUDGERY.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the LITTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once becomes the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

The Agricultural Bureau.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER.

The records of the Department, verifying the observation of all intelligent cultivators, attest the value of perfect drainage and good culture in warding off dangers from drouth and excessive moisture. Such has been the experience of the present year, which promises a moderate abundance for the supply of man and his dependant creatures of the farm. The area planted with corn was largely increased, and a larger breadth of wheat was sown. While the crop of corn will not equal the great yield of 1870, nor that of wheat the unparalleled crop of 1866, there will be an ample supply of both for the wants of this country, and tens of millions of bushels to supply the short crops of Europe. While the product of hay is somewhat less than usual its quality is good, and coarse for age in all sections and Winter pasturage in the South and distant West are never failing resources. Cotton will be gathered in smaller quantity, and sold at a higher price. Other crops, as a whole, promise very nearly average returns, giving moderate rewards to labor and ample supplies for necessary consumption.

Two extensive investigations in the chemical division were commenced early in the year. One of these, the analysis of several hundred specimens of cereals, carefully selected from the whole production of the country, and accompanied by full information in regard to the methods and conditions of cultivation, it is hoped will prove of general value and interest. The examination of the leaf, stem, and fruit of the grape-vine, at every week of its growth, has also been undertaken, and is nearly completed. By this work it is expected that new analogies in animal and vegetable physiology will be established, and information gained which bears directly upon the diseases of the vine. Several hundred determinations of the most accurate sort are required, and the time of one assistant is entirely occupied by them.

One of the most important works now engaging the attention of this division is the collection of facts illustrating the agricultural status of the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Slope, showing the progress of settlement and colonization, the yield and quality of production, the peculiarities and profit of agricultural labor, and the wants and capabilities of that great continental area. I propose to accomplish what may be done this year, with means and facilities at command, at a beginning of such a statistical and agricultural survey; and suggest that, if it be the pleasure of Congress to make a small special appropriation for the continuance of the work in the ensuing year, the country would be greatly benefited.

QUICK WORK—Several years ago when new churches were erected, and prosperity dawned upon Virginia city, a certain earnest clergyman on a Sunday morning, was exhorting those with anxious and troubled consciences to be sure and call on their pastor for guidance and prayer.

Said he, "To show you, my brethren, the blessed results of these visits with your pastor, I will state to you that only yesterday a gentleman of wealth called upon me for counsel and instruction; and now to-day, my friends—to-day—he sits among us a happy husband, and a father, and a Christian."

A young lady in the audience whispered to a matron, "was'nt that pretty quick work?"

Our National Wheat Crop.

Such frequent allusions have been made to the fact that our American wheat crop is rapidly deteriorating that it would seem as though the country would rise en masse and resolve that they will retrieve their reputations, and at the same time their fortunes, by proving that they are not only capable of, but determined to, maintain unimpaired the original fertility of the soils.

Here and there we find one who appears to adopt this determination, and the pity is that there are not more. Thus, for instance, we find it recorded that on Sherward Island; California, 69 bushels of wheat have been raised to the acre. Now, it is not to be expected that such an enormous yield as this could be made general, but it seems to show that we have wheat lands in the United States unsurpassed in the world.

Again, I noticed a day or two since that in Monroe county, Pa, a trifle over 40 bus. per acre of Diehl wheat was raised The owner of the farm on which this fine crop was gathered plows to a depth of twelve inches, the furrows are leveled with a harrow, and the soil is then throughly disintegrated with a wheat cultivator, with teeth fifteen inches long and drawn by four horses. The seed bed is thus twelve inches deep, the land is largely clayey, deep and fertile. Now, as there are millions of acres of lands similar to this in our country, why cannot the same thing be done on them? If it be possible for one man to raise 40 bushels of wheat to the acre, why should not all farmers with equal good lands do the same, or at least approximate to it?

Even in Burlington county, N. J., we find farmers who grow an average crop of over 30 bushels to the acre, and if the proper system were adopted this happy state of affairs would prevail generally, or at least we would be able to report an average crop, which, year for year, would exceed the present one at least one half.

Planting as deep as the nature of the soil will permit, the thorough pulverization of the entire depth of the seed bed, and a liberal application of manure are the requisites, and these are within the reach of all who have the spirit to avail themselves of them. If we had such a system of cultivation as should prevail, and is followed by the farmers to whom allusion in this article has been made, the average wheat crop of the United States would not be less than twenty-five bushels.—Cor. Journal of the Farm.

Feeding a Variety of Fodder.

Most farmers need line upon line and precept upon precept in regard to the care required for their domestic animals during the fodder season. Many persist in adhering to the old practice of feeding only one kind of fodder for a given period, and then changing to another kind for a few weeks. No practice can be attended with more unsatisfactory results than this. Sheep, for example, are frequently confined to straw and a little grain daily. Then, for a few weeks, hay is substituted and the grain omitted. Sheep are exceedingly fond of a variety of feed. Therefore a far better practice would be to feed a small quantity of hay every day, and not quite as much grain, letting the stock have free access to good straw, day and night. All kinds of domestic animals would thrive more satisfactorily when a variety of food is provided than when only one kind is dealt out without change. Even horses become excessively tired of cut feed at every meal. They need a change. Therefore it will always be better to vary the feed so as to afford the animal any advantage that may arise from feeding a variety of hay, straw, corn-stalks, grain, meal, or roots. Another consideration of no little importance is the quantity of cut feed which an animal requires. There is such a thing as compelling a horse, for example, to eat much more straw than he really needs, when at hard work. A team requires grain or meal. Straw will not furnish much nourishment. It is better to give a horse not more than a peck of cut straw with the meal, than to mingle the same quantity of meal with a half bushel of straw. Too much bulk is quite as objectionable as too little. This fact will hold good in feeding any kind of stock. Feeding too much straw with a little meal is like compelling a person to eat a quart of diluted soup, when, if the same nourishment were contained in a pint dish it would be much more palatable.—N. Y. Observer.

Every human creature is sensible to some infirmities of temper, which it should be his care to correct and subdue particularly in the early period of life.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic.

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

Hon. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. REMEMBER
THAT HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S PODOPHYLLIN,
Or Substitue for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.
The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it specially from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, REGULATES the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain its hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

Medical.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for inciplent consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to cold and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgements we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remidies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either residence in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the Ague Cure daily

For Liver Complaints, arise from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

THE IRON WORLD

Pittsburgh Business Directory!

THERE have been such repeated applications at our office and by mail for a Business Directory of this city, or a written list of names of manufacturers and business men, that we have determined to supply a long felt want, and to publish ourselves a Business Directory of Pittsburgh which shall be

COMPLETE & ACCURATE

And specially arranged

FOR EASE OF REFERENCE.

It is a fact, which none can dispute, that the present City Directory does not answer the purpose which this work will, and afford such information as would be of any value to a stranger desirous of finding, at a glance, the name and location of the parties he desires to deal with.

That our work may be well arranged, and thoroughly reliable, we have engaged JAMES L. BISHOP to superintend the canvass and compile it. He has had an experience of many years in this branch of the publishing business, and we are confident will bring out the finest publication of the kind ever issued in this city or elsewhere. A Directory of a city, and especially a Business Directory, requires the utmost accuracy and skill in its compilation, and none but those who have had much experience can bring out a creditable publication.

We intend to make this a work of great value to the business men of this city: and shall at our own expense, and to advertise our own publications, send copies of it to all prominent hotels, reading rooms and Boards of Trade in the United States.

This work will be issued on the finest and heaviest quality of book paper, and in a style of typography not to be surpassed. That it may prove advantageous to advertisers, the cards received for it will not be crowded all together at the end of the book, but occupy the left hand pages running through it, so that every person referring to the work must of necessity see and read the cards therein as they meet his eye.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, Dec'ber 20, 1871.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

We would call the special attention of postmasters and our subscribers to the followinw synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter, (ecturning a paper does not answer the aw,) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken; and a neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publishers for payment.

2. Any person who takes a paper faom the post-office, whether directed to his name or another's, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the payment.

3. If a person orders his paper to be discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

4. If the subscriber orders the paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it, if he takes it out of the post-office. The law proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima-facie evidence of intentional fraud.

CHRISTMAS next Monday.

THE weather has been pleasant the past week.

THE small-pox is said to be abating in Johnstown.

RANKIN'S Insurance Office over Meek's printing office.

HAVE you been vaccinated? is the question of the day.

EGGS are very scarce in the market, and command a good price.

THE deer hunting season for the present year, ends on the 31st inst.

THE third volumne of the REPUBLICAN closes with the present number.

FOR a fine assortment of hair, tooth and nail brushes for the Holidays, go to Green's.

THE last rail of the Danville, Hazelton and Wilkesbarre railroad was laid on the 6th inst.

QUITE a number of ice houses in town were filled during the past week, with choice ice.

ALL stores and business places in town will be closed on Christmas day. This is right and proper.

COMPOUND Carbolic Amulets for the prevention of contagious diseases, for sale at Green's Drug Store.

THEY have three "vaccine" doctors in Harrisburg, appointed by council at a consideration of $50 per annum.

PERSONS, during the winter season especially, should see that their stove pipe and flues are in proper condition.

THE new Round House of the B. & S. S. R. R. Co., is almost completed. It is a handsome as well a substantial building.

ARM BROKEN.—A Mr. Johnstonbaugh of Harris twp., had an erm broken on Saturday last, while engaged in threshing cloverseed.

DON'T forget to attend the fair to be held at Bush's Hall by the Logan boys, this week and next. They should have, as they deserve, abundant success.

THE Bellefonte Glass Works changed hands last week. They are now under the management of Curtins, Loeb & Co., and will be run with renewed vigor.

THE grading of the L. C. & S. C. R. R., is progressing as vigorously as the state of the weather wilt permit. The contractors are men at energy, and will lose no time in the completion of their contracts.

IN some portions of the county it has been circulated that small-pox is "raging in Bellefonte." Such rumors are without an iota of foundation. There is not a single case of the disease in town—not even one of varioloid. We are indeed thankful, to be able to say that the rumors are entirely untrue.

FIRE.—The dwelling house of Mrs. Kreamer, residing in Horntown, this county, was destroyed by fire on Sunday last, together with its entire contents. Mrs. K., is a poor widow lady and the loss to her is a severe one. The fire originated from the stove pipe passing through the roof, without any guard.

WM. GALBRAITH, Esq., in the employ of W. V. Hughes, at the Bellefonte Plaining Mill met with a severe accident on Monday morning last, by which he almost severed the front finger of his left hand. The wound was dressed by Dr. Geo. F. Harris. It will be weeks before Mr. G. will be able to resume work.

ACCIDENT.—One day last week, while Judge Burchfield of Furguson twp., was engaged in hauling cornfodder from the field, his horses became frightened, and dashed off at full speed. In Mr. Burchfield's efforts to stop the team he was knocked down and dragged some distance. He had one arm broken, and his body was much bruised and cut. He is now doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances, and it is hoped that none of his injuries may prove fatel.

A CURE FOR CANCER.—Mr. J. B. Williams, Health Officer of Allegheny, a gentleman well known in the community, sends the following to the Pittsburg Commercial for publication, hoping to relieve some of the many persons afflicted with cancer:

"In 1863 a cancer appeared on my left hand. After much suffering and the failure of all other remedies, I had it burned with caustic. In 1864 it developed in my right arm, being more painful than before. I again applied caustic, and suffered terribly in the operation. It remained checked for a while but again broke out in my right hand. Last spring it grew very fast, the hand becoming so helpless that I had to carry it in a sling. I feared my hand would have to be amputated. Having heard that several persons had been cured by drinking wild tea and poulticing with the tea grounds, I began using wild tea in earnest. I drank nothing else at my meals, and in four weeks my hand was as well as ever. I know two persons in Pittsburgh who have been cured of cancer within the past few months by drinking wild tea. Wild tea grows in most of the states, and is well known. This remedy should have the widest publicity."

INSURE in the "Equitable" Life Company.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—Quite a singular, though not dangerous accident occurred to our distinguished fellow citizen, Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong, this morning. Sometime before sunrise, the men who were engaged to slaughter his fat hogs, kindled a fire near his barn, to heat water. The gentleman awaking from sound and peaceful slumber, and seeing an unusual light shining in the darkness, sprang from his bed, rushed to the window, and in attempting to raise it and look out, stuck his head through a pane of glass, cutting his face near the eye, causing a painful but not dangerous wound, which was dressed by the doctor and is now doing well. Although considerable complaint has been made about that pig pen, the Hon. gentlemsn thinks this accident worse than a sty.—Gazette and Bulletin.

EVERY body should provide themselves with a compound Carbolic Amulet, at Green's.

SMALL POX—A DISINFECTANT.—Messrs. Editors:—Some five or six years ago, the writer had an attack of the above loathsome disease in its worst form. The family at the time consisted of eleven persons, and by a proper course of disinfecting the house the disease was prevented from spreading. The following is the formula for the disinfectant:

Vinegar—one half gallon.
Molasses—one pint,

Mix together, and use by sprinkling it upon red-hot charcoal carried about the house upon an iron shovel or pan.

By continuing this through the day and night during the malady, there need be no fear of its spreading even to other members of the family.—Journal.

NOTICE.—We have, within the last three week's sent bills to all of our subsribers in arrears. It is our desire, that these men to whom bills have been sent, pay up promptly and manfully. We cannot send the paper forever without pay. If a subscriber cannot pay when his bill is $6,00 (3 years) it is not likely he will pay when it is $8,00. We propose to strike off all this class of subscribers on the 1st day of January 1872.

We now, therefore give notice, that we want all of our subscribers who owe for two or three years to call at our office and settle between this and the first of January 1872. If you fail to do this your names will certainly be stricken from our list.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.—At a meeting of the Pine Grove Cornet Band, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Jas. I. Musser, we have lost one of our best members, a congenial friend, and kind associate; therefore be it

Resolved, That in his death, we deplore our loss with the assurance of his eternal gain, bowing, nevertheless, humbly to the will of Him, who although dealing mysteriously, yet doth all things well.

Resolved, That out of respect for the deceased, we drape our room in mourning for sixty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the widow and family of the deceased and published in the Bellefonte Watchman and Bellefonte REPUBLICAN.

BALLOU'S MAGAZINE FOR JANUARY.—We fiind in the January number of BALLOU'S MAGAZINE, which is just issued, such a complete collection of stories, romances, poems, engravings, and real useful information, that we do not wonder BALLOU'S MONTHLY is so popular with all classes of society. Here we see a New Year's story, and there a sea yarn, and so we read through the whole publication and wish for more. The magazine is only $150 per year, or 15 cents per copy, and is for sale at all the news depots in the country. Thomes & Talbot, Publishers, 63 Congress Street, Boston.

LIST of Letters remaining in the Bellefonte Post office, and unclaimed, Dec. 11, 1871:

Wm Eckert, Emanuel Fye, Catharine Feack, David Fanet, Mrry Ann Gallgher, S W Goe & Son. Rachel Gooble, Wm R. MIFFLIN & CENTRE RAILROAD.—We are pleased to learn that the extension of the above named road, from Milroy to connect with the L. C. & S. C. R. R. is again being agitated. The Lewistown Democrat of the 14th inst., says:—

The extension of the Mifflin and Centre County Railroad from Milroy, to intersect the Lewisburg and Spruce Creek Railroad., is seriously under consideration in high quarters. The newest route proposed leads through Path Valley, north-west of Milroy, and thence over the Seven Mountains, connecting near the end of Nittany mountain. This would make a distance of not over 23 miles, and would bring Bellefonte and the whole Snow Shoe region, with its immense productions of coal and lumber, at least 20 miles nearer to Harrisburg or Philadelphia, via Lewistown, than any other route. It would also secure to Lewistown again the Penn's Valley trade. We repeat, the feasability of the route is being inquired into by responsible parties, and we shall not be surprised to see the construction of the road commenced as soon as next spring shall open.

BEFORE Assuring your Life, examine the new "Fontine" Saving Fund Assurance. John I. Rankin, Agent.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.—The citizens of Pine Grove, Ferguson twp., have formed a Musical Association composed of some of the best citizens of the twp., conducted by Prof. Carter. The Association will open on the 25th, and will give three sessions each day, closing on the 29th day of December, 1871. On Friday evening the 29th, a grand Concert will be given. It is the intention of the Association to make the Concert on the evening above named, a grand affair, worth more than all it will cost for the admission to the entire session of four days. These musical associations, we think are to be recommended, and parents and guardians, should do all in their power to patronize them. Music is an accomplishment. Every child should be instructed sufficiently, to sing with the spirit and the understanding also. 48-3t

GREEN'S Castor Oil and Glycerine Pomade is the nicest thing out.

SUICIDE.—An old German long a resident of Benner township, this county, and well known in this vicinity as "Carl" committed suicide by hanging himself on Monday evening last, in the county prison. His mind had been considerably affected for some time, and he had attempted once or twice quite recently to take his life but failed by being discovered in time to prevent him from doing so. One day last week the Overseer of the Poor of Benner, twp., under whose charge he had been for some time, had him placed in the above institution, in order to prevent any further attempt at the act. However, this did not prove a successful preventative. To commit the deed, he first placed his bedstead upon end for a scaffold, and with the use of his comfort or scarf for a rope, succeeded in ending his earthly career.

NEW BOOK.—"Chicago and the Great Conflagration" is the title of a new work written by Elias Colbert and Everett Chamberlain of the Editorial staff of the Chicago Tribune, and published by Messrs. Hubbard & Bros., 723 Sansom st., Phila. This work contains 500 pages with 30 spirited illustrations, is ably written, and is just the work that every person should have. Our young friend Nelson Lucas, has secured the Agency to sell this book in Bellefonte, Boggs, Spring and Huston twps. He is a reliable man and will deliver the books himself.

DARKNESS IN THE TREATMENT OF SMALL POX.—If a patient, in the beginning of the attack, be put in a room from which absolutely all light is excluded save that of a candle, the effect is to arrest the disease in the papular or vecicular stage; the skin between the vesicles is never inflamed or swollen; the large scabs of matter never form over the face; there is no intense pain, and only trifling itching, and the smell is either very slight or altogether wanting.—London Lancet.

CARRIERS' ADDRESS.—Our Carrier, Jas. C. Curtin, will be around on New Year's day with his Annual Address, and he requests all to be on hand with their quarters, halves, V's, &c. Mr. Curtin has delivered the REPUBLICAN to your doors faithfully and promptly during the past year, and deserves a liberal show of your appreciation of his services.

THE largest display of Watches Jewelry, Silver, and Silver plated fancy goods &c., ever brought to Bellefonte is now to be seen at the Jewelry Store of F. P. Blair. Who has every thing suitable for Christmas presents that one can imagine, from the highest priced articles down to what costs almost nothing.

REV. M. S. HEINDEL from Theological Seminary at Gettysburg will preach in the Lutheran Church of this place, next Sabbath at 10½ o'clock, A. M., and at Pleasant Gap at 2½ o'clock, P. M., and will address the Lutheran Sabbath School on Monday at 9 o'clock A. M., at their Christmas Festival.

THE Christmas buyers ne'er can find
In all the stores of town, I ween,
Presents, more suited to the mind,
Than the Singer Sewing Machine.

The Singer stands at the head of sewing machines, it is acknowledged superior to all others, runs so easy, is so simple yet it does a greater variety of sewing than any other. All who have no sewing machines, and those having old, worthless ones, throw them away or sell them as "old iron" and come and buy new ones. They will make very beautiful and useful Christmas presents.

Examine the rest, then buy the best—

LARGE BEEF.—Mr. C. Dale of Harris twp. killed a beef on Monday last two years and six months old which weighed 839. lbs. He sold the ½ of it to Mr. Black. This beef is of the Durham stock and was raised by Mr. Dale.

MRS. PARTINGTON remarked the other day that "she had a resentment that she should eventually die in a prance," adding "that the resentment troubles her a good deal, but she expected finally to get immersed to it."

Go to Welch & Co's., for your Christmas Toys. Their stock is large and varied from which selections can easily be made that will gladden the hearts of your little ones.

THE "Equitable" Life Assurance Society present to the public a new style of Assurance entitled the Fontine Savings Fund Policy.

NO PAPER.—There will be no paper issued from this office next week. All hands wish to enjoy the Holidays.

REDUCE TAXATION.

Senator Sumner has made a move in the right direction in introducing a bill to reduce internal taxes and lessen the expense of collecting the remainder. His particular plan is to abolish all internal taxation after the first of july next, except stamp duties, and to increase those on spirits to eighty cents a gallon; to dispense with the income tax after January 1, 1872, and with the whole Internal Revenue Bureau, including the Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, and all the subordinates, except one collector for each State and Territory, after the first of September next.

We have not at hand the figures upon which to calculate what amount of revenue may be expected from the stamp duties thus modified, and would be impossible at all events to estimate it with any approximation to certainty. Eighty cents a gallon is probably more than could be honestly collected from whisky, even with the present force of detectives. Without the aid of such officers to guard against frauds this source of revenue would be still more precarious.

If distillers and dealers were all honest, this stamp tax would probably yet yield not less than the amount received from spirits last year, which was upwards of $46,000,000. Unfortunately, however, they are not, and it may well be doubted if Mr. Sumner's system of stamps would yield so much as $40,000,000 in all.

Yet we say it is a move in the right direction; for so long as the Government by a slight increase in the tariff upon such luxuries as highwines, champaigns, cigars, silks, &c., and upon a few other articles which are so largely produced in this country that the foreign sellers must pay whatever duty is levied upon them, could raise the entire $270,000,000 required to carry on the Government and pay the interest on the debt and on the sinking fund, we need not extract no more from the people in the form of internal taxes than it its deemed advisable to pay yearly toward reducing the principal of the debt.

Mr. Boutwell thinks an annual reduction of fifty millions all sufficient, and the country fully agrees with him.

Mr. Sumner's bill, perhaps, goes too far. It would probably be better to retain the whole amount now obtained from tobacco, which was about thirty millions last year. Tobacco is more legitimate object of taxation than spirits, since the latter, if manufactured cheaply, would be exported in great quantities, and afford an increased demand for the grain of the farmers. But certainly a large part of our internal revenue can be spared, and many of the officers of the bureau be dispensed with.

Judge Kelly also introduced a resolution in the House yesterday which had the same object in view. The telegraph does not give the details of his plan, but his views upon the subject are well known. He would reduce internal taxes to the very lowest possible terms, and at an early day abolish them altogether, depending entirely upon custom duties. This is sound and practical statesmanship.—Press, 12th inst.

Your attention is particularly requested to the following certificate referring to those old established remedies, "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS', and "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC," from that well known citizen,

IRA C. MITCHELL, ESQ.:

"BELLEFONTE, PA., Oct. 27, 1871.

Sir:—I have just had the pleasure of meeting your Agent, the first representative of "Hoofland's German Bitters" and "Hoofland's German Tonic," it has ever been my good fortune to meet. For many years I have been purchasing and using them to the great comfort of myself, family and friends, having commenced their use on the recommendations of the Supreme Court Judges of this State. It affords me pleasure to have the opportunity to voluntarily recommend the same to all of my friends and acquaintances who may be suffering from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Billiousness or affections of the Liver, of any kind.

Very Respectfully,
IRA C. MITHELL."

These medicines are and have been well known to the community for the last twenty-five years, as genuine, reliable and deserving remedies for the diseases mentioned in the above certificate. Those afflicted should not fail to use them. Sold by all Druggists. C. M. EVANS, Proprietor, 631, Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 3-36-1y

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A CARD.—We take this method of saying that there is no truth in the reports that have been circulated, "that we intend quitting the coal business as soon as our present supply is sold out." On the contrary we have on hands now and intend to keep on hand a well selected stock of the best Anthracite coal in the market.

TO THOSE WHO ARE BOWED DOWN by nervous Debility, and despair of ever recovering the vigor and mien of manhood we earnestly recommend DR. WALKERS CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS. Before they have finished the first bottle, they will feel the restorative principle at work in every portion of their broken-down systems and hope will spring up in their hearts. No case of Dyspepsia Biliousness, Intermittent Fever, Rheumatism, Gout or kidney disease, can resist this unequalled vegetable tonic which is unpolluted by any distilled or fermented liquor.

CAPTAIN JAMES GALLAGHER.

Steamboat Captain, of Pittsburgh, Pa. writes: "The inventor of MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS is a benefactor to the human race. I was a victim to the worst form of Dyspepsia; my health failed to such an extent that my Physicians pronounced me incurable. I had used all sorts of remedies and even took a voyage to California but nothing relieved me. When MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS was recommended I refused to use it; but my friends insisting, I at last yielded. I am thankful that I did so, for it cured me, and I am now as well, hale and strong as I was fifteen years ago."
